If you think art is old and boring, I have some good news for you! There are lots of fun places to enjoy art and see how wonderful it can be. One of them is Beijing's 798 Art District. It is a place where artists can express their ideas, and the area has an interesting history, too. It started as an army factory in 1957. There were many things being built there, but by the late 1980s, the factories were too old to make modern machines. In 1995, a famous art school in Beijing started using the factory to make statues, paintings, and movies. Next time you're in Beijing, you should make a trip to the 798 Art District!
