Wang Qiang Goes to the Olympics

Chapter 3: Wang Tries Again

In 2012, Wang Qiang went to the Olympics again. This time, the Olympics were in London. Wang was in excellent condition thanks to years of practice. His chest and arm muscles were big and powerful. Wang was ready to win the gold medal!

The gymnastics competitions started in the morning. Mr. Zhang stood next to Wang and said, "Be careful. You are going to be in many competitions which require a lot of power and energy. You must focus or you will make mistakes."

Wang nodded. He knew he could not make too many mistakes.

awful (adj.)	chest (n.)	condition (n.)	give up (v.)	muscle (n.)
power (n.)	require (v.)	thanks to	till (conj.)

Wang walked to the high bar. He jumped and held the bar with two hands. He did one trick, two tricks, and then three tricks! He was doing great till he started to do a very difficult move and then, Wang missed. He fell off the bar and got an awful score. In the end, Wang did not get the gold medal or the silver medal. He finished in the seventh position.

Mr. Zhang asked, "Have you given up or will you try again? The next Olympics will be in Rio de Janeiro! Your friends and fans will still cheer for you!"

Wang said, "I don't know. I have tried many times, and I haven't won a gold medal. I'll have to think about it."

The high bar is a very long and high pole. Gymnasts use the high bar in gymnastics competitions. They spin on the pole and do tricks in the air.

Till is another word for until.

A move is a very difficult trick. Gymnasts perform different moves during the competition. They jump high in the air and turn many different ways.

Rio de Janeiro is a city in Brazil. Many people often call it "Rio".

After Reading

- What should Wang do if he wants a better result at the next Olympics?
- Would you try again to get a gold medal? Why or why not?

3 Act, Write, and Talk

- Read or act out the passage with your partner. One of you is Doctor Ping and one of you is Alex.

Alex sticks with it!

"Your body isn't in good condition," said Doctor Ping. "You weigh ten kilograms more than you should. Also, you have too much fat and not enough muscle. Finally, your skin looks pale."

"What should I do?" asked Alex. "I'm tired of feeling awful."

"You need to start exercising every day. Do exercise that you enjoy," said Doctor Ping. "Also, start eating fruits and vegetables, which are healthy for you. You'll feel great again if you're strict and don't give up."

Alex listened to Doctor Ping. He started exercising every day. He created a specific exercise plan and he stuck with it. He also ate only healthy food. After a few months, Alex visited Doctor Ping again to review his condition.

"You've done a great job," said Doctor Ping.

"It's all thanks to you," said Alex. "I feel happy and healthy again now!"

- Answer the questions. Talk about them with your classmates.

- What types of exercise do you enjoy doing?

- Has a doctor ever given you great advice that helped you?

- If you were the doctor, what else would you tell Alex to do?

- Tell your classmates about a plan you created and stuck to.
